
Editorial:

Editorial interns complete many tasks during their time at PITTSBURGH MAGAZINE. They can do anything from fact-checking, copy editing, researching, writing for one of four e-newsletters or posting events to the Web calendar. The position differs with each coming semester, as each issue of the magazine is different than the last.

Opportunities may arise for interns to contribute to the website or magazine; this is based on many things, including each intern's initiative.

Interns must work 10 to 20 hours per week during the unpaid, semester-long internship.

For more information, visit pittsburghmagazine.com/intern. To apply, please contact Kristina Martin, assistant editor and internship coordinator, at kmartin@pittsburghmagazine.com.
